General Washington was a communicant n the Protestant Episcopal Church. John Adams's religion was confined to the Ten Commandments and the sermon on the Mount. Thomas Jofferson diko. Madison was a Princeton student, and studied thoroughly the evidences of Christianity; but be and alcoroe were both rather "liberal" in their creed, we judge. John Quincy Adams was a Unitarian, as were Pierce, Fillmore, and Van Buren. Neither, we think, laid much claim te being religious. General Jackson made an open profession of religion in his last ders. Harrison was an Episcopaksu, we tienk. Polk was a Presbyterian, and General Taylor an Episcopalian, but neither a communicant, we think. Buchanan was not a church member, we believe. Lincoln was killed in a theatre on Good Friday. He professed no religion, but was, it is supposed, an atheist. Grant is so hard a case and so well known that we peed not say that he is not a church member. Mr. Hayes's wife is a Northern Methodist, but he does not belong to any church. Mr. Garfield is a member of the Disciples' Church. Andrew Johnson was at one period of his life a consistent Methodist, but left the church, we think. Tyler was a communicant in the Protestant Episcopal Church, we think. That's the best we can do just now.

Some of the Rich Californians. The assessor of San Francisco, Cal., has turned over to the auditor his annual supplemental roll, which amounts to about $190,000.000. The assessor states that since he turned over his regular assessment roll in June last it has come to his knowledge that large amounts of personal property, especially stocks in corporations, were not given account of by the owners thereof. The new constitution prescribes that such property shall be so assessed, and the assessor, acting, as he says, under legal assessor, acting, as a such assessments in the supplemental roll, leaving it to the parties assessed to test the matter in the courts if they wish. Annexed are some of the larger assessments: Leland Stenford, $19.719,000; Charles Crocker, $19.187,000; Mrs. Mark Hopkins, Crocker, $19,187,000; Mis. Mark Hopkins, $17,211,900; Central Pacific Railroad Company, $16,120,000; J. C. Flood & Co., $10,600,000; J. W. Mackay, $10,680,000; Nevada Bank, $7,600,000; Bank of California, $6,900,000; William Sharon, $4,470,000; James G. Fair, $4,220,000; J. C. Flood, $3,630,000; P. Donahue, $8,220,000; N.
